1852-1876

The three story, two and three bay wide brick houses lining this side of Warren Ave. were built for a middle class market and are much larger and more commodious than the average two story plus attic type of house built for nearby working class tenants. 202-220 Warren Ave. were all originally built with gable roofs but most have since been remodeled and now have shed roofs with bracketed cornices. 222-228 Warren Ave. were built in the 1870's in the currently fashionable Italianate style, with shed roofs and bracketed cornices. Each of these large, expensive houses is three bays wide and has a marble-faced basement. The first floor areas of 826-828 Warren Ave. now serve as an antique shop.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This three story, two bay brick house with shed roof represents a remodeling of the original three story, gable roofed structure that was buolt on this site in the 1850's and formed part of a group of such houses extending along this side of Warren Ave. The wide, arched first floor window probably dates from this remodeling.

The house is three stories in height, 15' wide, and occupies a lot 95' deep. There is a three story high, one bay wide and deep stair hall extension which connects the main structure to a two story high, four bay deep rear addition. There is an extra, two story high, one bay deep frame addition extending further to the rear. The house is constructed in running bond. The shed roof once had a bracketed cornice with a lower molding strip, but it no longer exists. A double chimney rises along the western side of the house and there is also a rear end chimney located at the north-east end of the kitchen addition.

The second and third floor windows openings have splayed brick lintels and wood sills. They are filled with 1/1 sash. The first floor door and window opening have round arched lintels. The wide window is filled with 1/1 lights, the upper pane of glass cut to fit the curve of the round arch. The sill is stone. A modern, flush panel door with three lights set within the door, is set beneath a single light transom, the glass cut to fit the curve of the round arch. The house sits on a fairly low basement, the entrance being reached by three marble steps. There is a wide, rectangular basement opening with segmentally arched brick lintel with scroll-sawed tympanum located beneath the first floor window.
